Serving Kentucky’s Need to Know: Statistics 12
From the Cabinet Secretary

I am pleased to welcome you to the Department for Libraries and Archives’ second Annual Report. KDLA is a part of the Education, Arts and Humanities Cabinet, of which I am proud to be Secretary. Our Cabinet is charged with the mission of preserving Kentucky’s heritage, preparing for its future and promoting a statewide culture of lifelong learning. With the leadership of Governor Paul E. Patton, the 14 agencies of the Cabinet provide services that contribute to an enhanced quality of life for the Commonwealth’s citizens: quality libraries, excellence in public education, the preservation of historical materials and landmarks, and cultural enrichment through the arts.

The new spirit of partnership and collaboration among the cabinet’s agencies is proving to be an ideal channel for fostering high-quality, innovative programs and services. Along with intensive cabinet-wide support for the goals of the Kentucky Education Reform Act, the Kentucky Strategic Plan for Economic Development and the Master Plan for Tourism Development, the Cabinet also works with state and local governments, and non-profit and private businesses, to develop Kentucky’s cultural resources as tools for economic development.

The Education, Arts and Humanities Cabinet continues to successfully pursue its missions of full public access to education, information, culture and heritage woven among its separate agencies. We applaud the work of the Department for Libraries and Archives, and its partners in libraries and local governments throughout Kentucky. The following report will give you a glimpse of how KDLA is planning for the future, so that it may continue its tradition of serving the lifelong learning needs of all Kentuckians.

Roy P. Peterson, Secretary
Education, Arts and Humanities Cabinet
From the Commissioner

On behalf of the staff of the Kentucky Department for Libraries and Archives (KDLA) as well as its representative boards, councils and commissions, I am pleased to be able to send this second annual report to the people of the Commonwealth. I promised you last year that this report would reflect a new Strategic Plan, and indeed it does. While this plan is of necessity part of an ever-changing process, the present document maps the strategic direction that our staff has targeted for the immediate future — our goals and objectives, followed by a brief factual overview of some of our accomplishments this year. To begin with, however, there are those unchanging principles which serve as a preface to our strategic plan: our vision, our mission, our core values and guiding principles. Herewith, from our entire strategic planning team:

A Vision for KDLA

A dynamic, evolving organization, the Kentucky Department for Libraries and Archives is a leader in providing quality management and delivery of information resources. It envisions a future in which:

- Kentucky is a state whose people have equitable access to the information resources they need for work and home; where government policy and action is well documented and the management of public records promotes government efficiency; and where our libraries are vital partners in the development of this state.

- Public libraries are an essential, vibrant element in their communities — places where citizens have unlimited access to a wide variety of information, and are served by well-trained library and archival professionals. With government information readily accessible to citizens, all public agencies are partners with KDLA in meeting documentation and records management responsibilities and have active, ongoing records management programs.

KDLA has forged productive partnerships with these citizens and public agencies, and is known for its staff’s strong service orientation, its ability to access a wealth of information resources, and its effective use of technology in all aspects of its work.

James A. Nelson
State Librarian and Commissioner
Our Mission

The Kentucky Department for Libraries and Archives serves Kentucky’s need to know by assuring equitable access to high quality library and information resources and services and by helping public agencies ensure that adequate documentation of government programs is created, efficiently maintained, and made readily accessible.
Core Values and Guiding Principles

Leadership: We are committed to providing strong, visionary leadership that encourages risk-taking; advocates for programs, staff and those we serve; and fosters open supportive communication.

Innovation: We are committed to proactive, creative and strategic approaches in the continuous evaluation and improvement of our services.

Quality Service: We are committed to providing customers with equitable access to timely and reliable services.

Professionalism: We are an expert and principled work force which treats customers and colleagues with respect, honesty and integrity in a spirit of cooperation.
Goal I

Improve support of people in our organization to create a work environment which fosters productivity and innovation.

Provide effective information technology tools, resources, and training needed by staff to do their work.

Establish an ongoing internal communications program.

Create a comprehensive training program based on staff and department needs.

Improve and expand our efforts to recognize our employees’ accomplishments and service.

A Workplace Environment Team with representatives from all divisions was established to define and support the objectives of this goal.

To enhance work performance, agency-wide access to personal computers was established for all KDLA staff.
Goal II

Strengthen the management of systems and services needed to meet the information needs of the people of Kentucky and of government personnel.

Strengthen and develop collection management strategies for the information resources of the department.

Strengthen the capacity of the department to serve its customers by providing improved management of and access to the department’s information resources.

Strengthen the capacity of libraries, repositories and other public agencies to provide increased access to information through electronic networking.

Libraries and archives staff responded to 117,500 requests for information and there were 90,000 visits to our homepage on the World Wide Web during the six months that it was available.

500,000 bibliographic records were added to the Kentucky Library Network database for a total of 3
Goal III

Improve the recognition of and support for library and archival services in the Commonwealth.

- Increase public awareness of the programs and services of the department and of library and archival issues in Kentucky.
- Increase state and local government agency awareness of our programs and services.
- Build alliances with other groups and organizations who can help further our mission.

KDLA's partnership with the Friends of Kentucky Public Archives, Inc., made Kentuckians more familiar with the rich public record archive at the department, by co-sponsoring programs, publications, and workshops throughout the state.

At the 1995 Kentucky State Fair, attended by nearly 675,035 visitors, KDLA partnered with other agencies of the Education, Arts and Humanities Cabinet to present a look at our programs and services called “The Common Ground: Celebrating our Cultural Diversity.”
Goal IV

Improve the creation, management, and use of public records, to enhance government efficiency and accountability.

- Secure approval of and financing for construction of a new records services addition to the department’s main facility.
- Review statutes, administrative regulations and departmental policies and procedures on public records and revise as necessary.
- Increase educational efforts to help public agency personnel better understand their shared records management and archival responsibilities.
- Develop means for the department to regularly evaluate public agency compliance with records management statutes.

With existing records storage facilities at or near capacity, the department continued to seek funding and develop support for a new State Records Services Center, to be built as a major addition to the department’s Clark-Cooper building in Frankfort.

Department staff retrieved 21,056 records in response to agency requests for information from records stored in the State Records and State Archives Centers.
Goal V

Strengthen the position of public libraries as vital resources in meeting the economic, educational, cultural and recreational needs of all Kentuckians.

- Improve the ability of public libraries to effectively use new and emerging technologies in their services.
- Promote and support public library partnerships with other community entities.
- Provide for basic and continuing education opportunities for public library staff and trustees.
- Establish and implement levels of accreditation for public libraries.
- Develop the means by which every county provides library services for all its citizens.

Nearly 1,000 public library staff members and library trustees participated in continuing education opportunities offered in library regions and at statewide events.

The first ever Library/School Partnership grant in the amount of $10,000 was awarded to the Oldham County Public Library. Funding allowed the public library to supply schools with a modern and convenient means of sharing and preserving local history.
We live in a time of increasingly rapid change, filled with startling uncertainty as well as unexpected new opportunities. We see a future where citizens’ lives are enriched by continually improved access to an ever wider array of information resources. For communities across the Commonwealth, we envision a future where local technological access to world-wide informational sources is a reality, where public libraries serve as community gateways or points of access to the Internet, available to every Kentuckian. For public agencies and citizens using the department’s central services, we plan to provide increased access to those services. We will also provide increased access to the resources of the Internet, through the World Wide Web and our department’s Web home page. And to meet the evolving needs of government well into the 21st century, we look forward to the construction of a new State Records Services Center addition to our
